Subject: 3329 Magnolia

Julie,

I have attached the information from the Jefferson County logbooks regarding 3329 Magnolia. We sampled the property on 02/17/2009 and then 03/19/2009 I called homeowners to schedule site walks. According to the field sheet, the former owner requested sampling via phone on 02/11/2009. It was typical back then for people to call our local field office and give verbal permission to sample. The field sheet also indicates the property was initially identified as OU1. This is scratched out and then identified as OU 3 with Murray listed with a question mark. Murray is Doug Murray with DR&J Trucking which he received a 104E letter regarding hauling possible lead contaminated soil to properties. I attached DR&J's 104E letter response. I don't see 3329 Magnolia listed on any receipt though. What probably happened is the property owner verbally told us he received soil from Doug Murray and we then classified the property as OU 3 since Doug Murray was a known hauler of contaminated soil. We left a message regarding excavation on 03/19/2009 and the property owner verbally declined excavation on 03/24/2009. We did attempt excavation access again via mailing on 08/13/2013 with no response. That request is also attached. I'm not sure who owned the property at that time. Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

UNITED STATES ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY REGION 7

11201 Renner Boulevard
Lenexa, Kansas 66219

RE: Request for Access to Remediate Your Residential Property

Dear Home Owner:

The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is in the process of addressing lead-contaminated residential yards in Jefferson County, Missouri. Historical mining activities were conducted in this region for the greater part of 70 years, resulting in migration of lead contaminated soil and gravel that pose a threat to human health and the environment. I have enclosed a Fact Sheet on "Lead" for your use.

Your property soil was previously sampled by the EPA. The results of that sampling are enclosed (site sketch). Your property qualifies for lead removal and yard restoration as part of Southwest Jefferson County Mining Superfund Site.

I have enclosed an EPA access agreement for you to read and sign. A signed access agreement must legally be in place for EPA to enter your property or to perform work at your property. Please sign the access agreement and return it (in the self-addressed stamped envelope). Receiving approval by the property owner is just the first step to getting the lead removed from your yard and having it restored.

Based on the information you provide, as well as the lead concentrations that are presented on the site sketch, EPA will prioritize each property. Properties with children less than seven (7) years old living in them will be the highest priority. Properties that have high lead concentrations in the soil (but no children living there) will be addressed next. Lower down the list will be properties with lower lead concentrations in the soil and no children less than seven (7) years old residing there.

Once EPA receives a signed access agreement, the following will occur:

- EPA will conduct an on-site meeting with the property owner (or designated representative) to discuss the work to be performed. This is called a property Site Walk.
- EPA will document (via video) conditions at your property prior to initiating any lead-related actions.
- EPA will contact Missouri's "One Call" line-locate system to ensure that all public and private utilities are marked. If there are any utilities onsite which have been installed by the property owner, these will be discussed at the Site Walk. At that time, you will be provided a schedule of when EPA will be on-site to remove the lead in your yard.
- The property owner or tenant will have time to move or remove all personal items from the areas to be worked in. Crews can help with larger items; however, to provide the most effective response, the areas should be free of personal items.

The removal action will consist of utilizing hand tools and small excavators to dig lead contaminated soil to depths of 12 inches and up to 24 inches in garden areas. Care will be taken to avoid damage to decorative bushes and trees, as well as permanent structures such as curbs and sidewalks. The contaminated soil from your property will be transported to an EPA approved disposal facility.

Printed on Recycled Paper

Restoration activities will include backfilling the excavated areas with clean fill. The grade of the yard will be brought back to that which previously existed, prior to excavation, and the area will be revegetated.

Any lead contaminated soil identified at the site which is not removed will be recorded on the site field sheet. The homeowner will be responsible for providing this information to any potential purchaser of the property. If areas of significant contamination exist below 12 inches, a warning barrier (orange in color) may be buried over the area to warn anyone performing future excavations so that recontamination of the clean fill is avoided.

Cost for the project is being funded through the Superfund, which is established in part for actions on National Priority List (NPL) Sites, such as this site. The only direct costs that a homeowner could experience would be related to nursing a yard back to maturity through additional lawn maintenance. EPA is committed to restoring each yard, as close as possible, to its condition prior to the removal activity.

If you choose not to have EPA perform soil removal activities at your property, please write the word "DECLINE" along with your name and property address on the access agreement and return it to the EPA at the address listed above or call the number listed below and voice your decision not to participate.

Please do not hesitate to contact me at (913) 551-7097, if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Preston Law
EPA Remedial Project Manager

Division of Toxicology and Environmental Medicine ToxFAQs™

August 2007

This fact sheet answers the most frequently asked health questions (FAQs) about lead. For more information, call the ATSDR Information Center at 1-800-232-4636. This fact sheet is one in a series of summaries about hazardous substances and their health effects. It is important you understand this information because this substance may harm you. The effects of exposure to any hazardous substance depend on the dose, the duration, how you are exposed, personal traits and habits, and whether other chemicals are present.

HIGHLIGHTS: Exposure to lead can happen from breathing workplace air or dust, eating contaminated foods, or drinking contaminated water. Children can be exposed from eating lead-based paint chips or playing in contaminated soil. Lead can damage the nervous system, kidneys, and reproductive system. Lead has been found in at least 1,272 of the 1,684 National Priority List sites identified by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

What is lead?

Lead is a naturally occurring bluish-gray metal found in small amounts in the earth's crust. Lead can be found in all parts of our environment. Much of it comes from human activities including burning fossil fuels, mining, and manufacturing.

Lead has many different uses. It is used in the production of batteries, ammunition, metal products (solder and pipes), and devices to shield X-rays. Because of health concerns, lead from paints and ceramic products, caulking, and pipe solder has been dramatically reduced in recent years. The use of lead as an additive to gasoline was banned in 1996 in the United States.

What happens to lead when it enters the environment?

- ❑ Lead itself does not break down, but lead compounds are changed by sunlight, air, and water.
- ❑ When lead is released to the air, it may travel long distances before settling to the ground.
- ❑ Once lead falls onto soil, it usually sticks to soil particles.
- ❑ Movement of lead from soil into groundwater will depend on the type of lead compound and the characteristics of the soil.

How might I be exposed to lead?

- ❑ Eating food or drinking water that contains lead. Water pipes in some older homes may contain lead solder. Lead can leach out into the water.

- ❑ Spending time in areas where lead-based paints have been used and are deteriorating. Deteriorating lead paint can contribute to lead dust.
- ❑ Working in a job where lead is used or engaging in certain hobbies in which lead is used, such as making stained glass.
- ❑ Using health-care products or folk remedies that contain lead.

How can lead affect my health?

The effects of lead are the same whether it enters the body through breathing or swallowing. Lead can affect almost every organ and system in your body. The main target for lead toxicity is the nervous system, both in adults and children. Long-term exposure of adults can result in decreased performance in some tests that measure functions of the nervous system. It may also cause weakness in fingers, wrists, or ankles. Lead exposure also causes small increases in blood pressure, particularly in middle-aged and older people and can cause anemia. Exposure to high lead levels can severely damage the brain and kidneys in adults or children and ultimately cause death. In pregnant women, high levels of exposure to lead may cause miscarriage. High-level exposure in men can damage the organs responsible for sperm production.

How likely is lead to cause cancer?

We have no conclusive proof that lead causes cancer in humans. Kidney tumors have developed in rats and mice that had been given large doses of some kind of lead compounds. The Department of Health and Human Services

ToxFAQs™ Internet address is <http://www.atsdr.cdc.gov/toxfaq.html>

(DHHS) has determined that lead and lead compounds are reasonably anticipated to be human carcinogens and the EPA has determined that lead is a probable human carcinogen. The International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC) has determined that inorganic lead is probably carcinogenic to humans and that there is insufficient information to determine whether organic lead compounds will cause cancer in humans.

How can lead affect children?

Small children can be exposed by eating lead-based paint chips, chewing on objects painted with lead-based paint, or swallowing house dust or soil that contains lead.

Children are more vulnerable to lead poisoning than adults. A child who swallows large amounts of lead may develop blood anemia, severe stomachache, muscle weakness, and brain damage. If a child swallows smaller amounts of lead, much less severe effects on blood and brain function may occur. Even at much lower levels of exposure, lead can affect a child's mental and physical growth.

Exposure to lead is more dangerous for young and unborn children. Unborn children can be exposed to lead through their mothers. Harmful effects include premature births, smaller babies, decreased mental ability in the infant, learning difficulties, and reduced growth in young children. These effects are more common if the mother or baby was exposed to high levels of lead. Some of these effects may persist beyond childhood.

How can families reduce the risks of exposure to lead?

- Avoid exposure to sources of lead.
- Do not allow children to chew or mouth surfaces that may have been painted with lead-based paint.
- If you have a water lead problem, run or flush water that has been standing overnight before drinking or cooking with it.
- Some types of paints and pigments that are used as make-up or hair coloring contain lead. Keep these kinds of products away from children
- If your home contains lead-based paint or you live in an area contaminated with lead, wash children's hands and faces often to remove lead dusts and soil, and regularly clean the house of dust and tracked in soil.

Is there a medical test to determine whether I've been exposed to lead?

A blood test is available to measure the amount of lead in your blood and to estimate the amount of your recent exposure to lead. Blood tests are commonly used to screen children for lead poisoning. Lead in teeth or bones can be measured by X-ray techniques, but these methods are not widely available. Exposure to lead also can be evaluated by measuring erythrocyte protoporphyrin (EP) in blood samples. EP is a part of red blood cells known to increase when the amount of lead in the blood is high. However, the EP level is not sensitive enough to identify children with elevated blood lead levels below about 25 micrograms per deciliter ( $\mu\text{g}/\text{dL}$ ). These tests usually require special analytical equipment that is not available in a doctor's office. However, your doctor can draw blood samples and send them to appropriate laboratories for analysis.

Has the federal government made recommendations to protect human health?

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommends that states test children at ages 1 and 2 years. Children should be tested at ages 3–6 years if they have never been tested for lead, if they receive services from public assistance programs for the poor such as Medicaid or the Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants, and Children, if they live in a building or frequently visit a house built before 1950; if they visit a home (house or apartment) built before 1978 that has been recently remodeled; and/or if they have a brother, sister, or playmate who has had lead poisoning. CDC considers a blood lead level of 10  $\mu\text{g}/\text{dL}$  to be a level of concern for children.

EPA limits lead in drinking water to 15  $\mu\text{g}$  per liter.
